Web cam

- It is an electronic input device used for capturing images and videos.
- It is an electronic input device used for recording videos and calling.

Mouse

- It is an electronic input device that control a cursor around screen.
- It is an electronic input device used for interacting with a computer.

Keyboard

- It is an electronic input device for introducing data on a computer.
- It is an electronic input device used that sends data to the computer.

Micro

- It is an electronic input device to record or transmit waves sound.
- It is an electronic input device used to put audio into a computer system.

Joystick

- It is an electronic input device used to play video games easily.
- It is an electronic input device that moves a control used in computer games.

Output

Monitor

- It is an electronic output device that displays signals on a computer screen.
- It is an electronic output device that displays visual data and the user interface.

Projector

- It is a visual output element enlarge a digital content.
- It is an electronic output device that shows images and videos into surface.

Speakers

- It is an electronic output device that converts digital data into sound.
- It is an electronic output device that plays audio for the user.

Printers

- it is an electronic output device that prints digital data on paper.
- It is an electronic output device that produces physical documents from code.

Headphone

- It is an electronic output device that plays audio directly to the user's ears.
- It is an electronic output device that converts digital signals into private sound.